SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1 .- The announcement by Senator Sherman in Chicago that he would talk some politics in his speech here this afternoon, brought to the capital from all portions portions of the State nearly all the leading Republican coliticians, who realize that Sherman's visit here is the inaugural step in his pres tial boom. Aside from politicians, there to see and hear Sherman, and the Committee to see and hear Sherman, and the Committee of Arrangements constructed a platform and seats sufficient to accommodate several thousand people by the side of the capitol. But about noon a heavy shower of rain fell, and as the weather continued threatening the House of Representatives' Chamber had to be utilized for the meeting, the dimensions being by no means sufficient to accommodate the immense ground much accommodate the immense crowd, much to the disappointment of Sherman and his boomers. The Senator was escorted from the Leland Hotel to the Capitol by the Young Men's Republican Club of this city and a dele-

Men's Republican Club of this city and a delegation of prominent citizens of the State, among them being Gov. Oglesby and staff, Senator Farwell and Senator Cullom.

At 2:30 the assemblage was called to order by Gov. Oglesby, who presided over the meeting, and after the music by the Fifth Regiment Band the Governor presented Senator Sherman, who was received with great demonstrations of applicant. tions of applause. His address was as fol-

what did their full share in maintaining these trying times? That many thousand Democrats did their full share in maintaining the Government, both in the field and in the public councils, must be conceded by every harminded man and the highest credit must be given to them for their patrotism, courage and devotion to duty. Ohief of these at the beginning of the contest was Stephen. A. Douglas. No man coubts that if he had lived he would have stood at the right hand of Lincoln in the Sanate, and in the field would have maintained the honor of the flag and the integrity of the Union, and, like Lincoln and Grant, would never have yielded until the last reble had laid down his arms in unconditional reble here. It is speech made in the old State House here have yielded until the last reble had laid down his arms in unconditional House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here. It is speech made in the old State House here the duty of patriotism at that perious hour of the nation's life. He implored both Democrats and Republicans to lay aside their party oreeds and platforms; to dispense with party organizations and party appeals; to forget that they were ever divided, until they had first rescued the Government from its assailants. His arguments were clear, convincing and unanswerable; his sappeals for the salvation of his country irresistible."

Again, he spoke in Chicago in the same shall and the property of the party of the pa and only this? All this and more, in sous detail, was proven before committees congress, was reported by officers of the sy and swidenced by every form of proof own to courts, and, in many cases, was nitted by the preas and people of South and defended. General Raum, distinguished citizen of Illinois, has the book I have before me, compiled I condensed this swidence, and I say to you the own and a say to you the man can read it without being conced that all I say is true, with revolting dest that I do not give. In this way and by se means the Democratic party in the South whold in solid and unbroken array every them State with increased political power ferred by the freedom of the slaves. This he basis of their power. Without the terror I ostracism I have described several of se States, governed by their interests and victions, enlightened by free discussion, aneignated in fact as well as in name, would as thoroughly Republican as Illinois. It is dithat this is raising the bloody shirt; rewing the animosities of the war. I deny it, charge is an unjust reproach of Confedite soldiers, but of cowards and crimis, not in war but in peace. I pity the man o cannot distinguish between the duty of diers and self-imposed crueities and barous methods born of slavery. That has been the course of the Democratic ty of the North while these events have m going on? At first there was doubt and ial, but now no honest man can doubt, sess willfully ignorant. No Democrat with park of manhood who hates these methods shield himself behind doubt or disbellef, and, fellow-citizens, this is not a thing of past. It is a continuing fact. It a fact to-day. There is not an elligent man in this broad land of either ty who does not know that Mr. Cleved is now President of the United States by the of crimes against the elective france, including murder, arson, ballot-box fing, forgery and perjury, but for which nee G. Blaine would now be in his place, are of the Fifteenth Amendment when, if recould have been a fair election for Presnit, a maj

and some punishment inflicted, but, upon the promise that this system of terror and crime would not be renewed, the prisoners were in due time pardoned. This was not the end of it, Gen. Grant was re-elected, and soon after crimes and violence were renewed against Republicans, both white and black, in all the cotton States. In 1876 the House of Representatives had become Democratic, and in the same year what is known as the Mississpiplan was adopted and the Republican vote of that State was absolutely suppressed. And again in the Presidential election of 1876 the offenses were so revolting as to justify the returning boards in several States, under the laws of those States, in excluding the votes of a number of counties, parishes and districts.

Since 1875 the Republican party did not possess the power to pass any law for the protection of life or property in the South, and the Democratic party would not. It can be truly said that every stroctty, every political crime, violence or wrong in the South, and the Democratic party uniformly refused to examine, prevent or punish in any case any of these orimes.

I therefore claim for the Republican party that, while it has not been able to protect the colored people of the South in the enjoyment of civil rights, or to guard them by military force from gross wrong and oppression by the dominant and controlling physical force of the South, acting in the name and in the interest of the Democratic party, yet that it has done all that it could lawfully do, within the limits of the powers given by the Constitution and the laws, to defend all classes of people without respect to race, condition or creed. If it has failed in any particular it has been because it was prevented by the policy and power of the Democratic party, armed with state authority.

elections for Senators and Representatives in Congress cannot be had Congress should assert and exercise its unquestioned power to regulate the times, places, and manner of holding such elections. This power is as clearly conferred upon Congress as the power to levy taxes or make war, and, in my independs, the time has arrived when it should be tuily and vigorously extended. This power has been asserted by the activities of the constitutionality or expediency. I has not been exercised as in members of the House of Representatives, from the strong desire to avoid any interference with popular elections in the States; but the existence of the power has been affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States in the case ex parte Yarborough and others, decided at the October term, 1888, in which the Court said:

"That a Government whose exsential character is republican, whose executive head and legislative body are both elective, whose most numerous and powerful branded the formal corruption, and of fraud, is a proposition so startling as to arrest attention and command gravest consideration. If this Government is anything more than a mere aggregation of delegated agents of other States and covernments; it must have the power to protect the elections on which its existence depends from violence or corruption, and this was the course of its fail. So in ours, it elections are instead of the popular will, it will be the end of free government. The mission of the Republican party will never end until every legal yoter can cast one honest yote, and no more, and have that yote counted.

A vital difference between the two great parties is shown in their choice of officers and agents to conduct the Government. The Republican party will never end until every legal yoter can cast one honest yote, and no more, and have that yote counted.

A vital difference between the two great parties is shown in their choice of officers on it and the grand results of the war. Every measure for the benefit of Union soliders received prompt

But by the Confederate construction of the Constitution all this is unconstitutional. By their theory we may impose burdens but can not confer benefits.

And now, fellow citizens, the immediate result of Democratic or Confederate ascendancy is to be a struggiesto break down our industrial system. They now propose to reduce the duties on articles that we can and do now produce, and thus bring our skilled artisans into competition with foreign labor that will inevitably reduce the price of domestic labor. The farmer, with wool duty free, must either kill his sheep or reduce the price of his wool, and se with every article of domestic production. But even on this policy they cannot agree. With exclusive power over revenue bills they can agree upon no proposition for the reduction of taxes, while surplus revenue drawn from the life blood of the people accumulates in the Treasury. But in the end the Confederate idea will, as usual, prevail in that party.

Randall will resist, but he will learn the

Randall will resist, but he will learn the same lesson so many Democrats before him have learned. The Confederate constitution declared in so many words that no duties or taxes on importations from foreign nations shall be laid to promote or foster any branch of industry, and that is the creed of the Democratic party.

And so with all the deeply interesting and important questions affecting American labor and laborers. The Republican party, embracing in it the great body of the producer of the country, has uniformly, both by State and National legislation, adopted every just measure that has been proposed to improve their condition, to promote employment, to require the hours of labor, to secure good wages and prompt pay in good money, and stands ready to adopt every just measure to open their way to comfort, we alth, and to all the advanced positions in public and private life. The Confederate idea is that Congress has no power to de any of these things. It is unconstitutional. The Democratic party has therefore opposed the homestead law, the tariff laws, and, in many of the States, especially where their strength lay, have opposed wise laws for the protection of laboring men. There are some things that laws can not do. They can not requisite the price of labor or anything else. This can only be done by the law of supply and demand. American laborers do not desire such legislator. They only want the free and ready means of contesting with capital for a fair division of the results of production. We have no room in this country for anarchists, communists or Socialists—the worst productions of despotic governments. All our workingmen want is an open field and a fair chance, with the right of organization, eco-peration and the riendity sympathy of all classes and conditions of men. The Confederate idea had its example in laivery and now has its natural fruits in millions of laborers deprived of when constitutional. They found no power in the constitutional. They found no power in the constitution for the The state of the s am not opposed to Confederate soldiers, but to Confederate ideas. Many Confederate soldiers were true to the Union until drawn by Satto pride to fight for the Confederacy. I have no dislike for Democrats, many of whom I cherish as my degrees friends, but I do dislike the tendency of that party to Confederate ideas. They taunt us with waving the bloody shirt; we believe they wave the Confederate flag. Jefferson Davis says: "They are now Baring their breasts for the rights they fought for." The resolutions of the Democrate of Kentucky are, in effect, extracts from the Confederate Constitution and Confederates are selected as their candidates. The Democrate party is the left wing of the new Confederate army.

I do not agree with Mr. Curtis of New York when he says in a recent speech "that the federates are selected as their candidates. The Democratic party is the left wing of the new Confederate army.

I do not agree with ir. Ourils of New York when he says in a recent speech "that the great parties are now mainly the shadows of great names and represent no definite and distinct policy upon any of the existing questions," nor when he says the Republican party "was organized wholly to resist the curse of slavery." But I do agree with him when he says, "I am prouder of nothing than of my souncetion with that party which, it seems to me, has done more for human liberty and for every popular interest than any other party in the history of the English-speaking race." Our party has not only grappied with the surse of slavery, but it has grappied with the surse of slavery, but it has grappied with every question of public policy within the past twenty-five years, and always in the spirit of liberty, union and strength. It may not in all respects have met the wishes of Mr. Curtis, but his eulogy places it far beyond thatof any other party.

LET NO MAN BE MISLED into the conclusion that all the vital issues dividing "the two parties have been settled. There are many things that lie near to the heart of the American people. They demand a free ballot, a fair count and correct returns. They wish still further to develop and diversify American industry. They wish to produce everything in this country for which the God of Nature has given us the raw materials, or which is suited to our soil and elimate. Every measure should be supported that will tend to protect and foster home industries. We should not be content until every channel of eommenumeation capable of improvement, and which will yield benefits equal to its cost, shall be improved. We should connect the Father of Waters with our great system of lakes by waterways sufficient not only to protect our commerce in transporting supplies in peace, but to transfer from the heart of the country vessels and means of defense in time of war. The education of the ri by an honorable, cordan and friends intercourse.

If I have correctly stated the aims and tendencies of the two parties, the Republican party is she only one fitted to carry out such a policy. Our adversaries may brood over the dead past and mourn the decay of Confederate ideas; but Republicans hall with unbounded satisfaction every advance of our country in strength and power at home and abroad, conscious that this is consistent with the full powers of State, county and local sovereignty, reaching to every family and homestead in the land. We brood over no lost cause, but look forward hopefully to reap for future generations the great benefits conferred by the sacrifices and services of our patriot soldiers in the preservation of the Union and the abolition of slavery.

It is said that the Republican party had been long in power. Our Democratio friends wanted to examine the books. They wanted to turn the rascals out. What rascals have they found in? What wrong or peculation nave
they found in? What wrong or peculation nave they found in? What wrong or eventuation have they found the the books? I can with confidence and pride say to you that no adininistration of this or any Government has been more free from corruption, fraud or peculation than the Republican Administrations from Lincola to Arthur, both included. The Republican party has justified itself in war and in peace. It is the only party in this country that can give you a national, patriotic, liberty-loving, fraud-hating and business administration. It enters into the lists this year and next year proud of its record, with no apologies to make, no crimes to repent of, no people deprived by it of their rights. It has stood the test of defeat and retirement with unquestioning acquiescence, though it was brought about by crime. It has fairly treated the Democratic President, who has gained public approval only as he has resisted his party. It will again appeal to the suffrages of the people, asking only as honest vote and

A MAD DOG'S BAID.

North St. Louis in Terror This Morning-

There was much excitement in the Northern part of the city this morning north of Salis-bury street. Early in the morning a report was current that a mad dog was on a rampage and the police kept a special watch for him, but as subsequent events will show, did not succeed in downing the animal. but as subsequent events will show, did not succeed in downing the animal. The dog, a large black hound, evidently from the rural districts, crossed and re-crossed the principal thoroughtares north of Bremen avenue between Twentieth street and the river, within three-quarters of an hour. All the time he was going at railroad speed with blood dripping from his mouth, his tongue pretruding and eyes bulging. His first work, so far as is known was in an old orchard on Eleventh near Angelica street. Here he attacked Frank Meyerpeter, a 12-year-old son of Police-Officer H. H. Meyerpeter, residing at 4237 North Fourteenth street. The little fellow was on his way to school when the vicious brute attacked him. Fortunately, he made only a scratch with his teeth on the boy's left leg and tore the legs of his pantalous before he could be beaten off by a teamster. Officer Meyerpeter took his son to Dr. A. Roach, Thirteenth and Bremen avenue. The doctor cauterized the wound and pronounced it not dangerous. The next work of the brute was to attack a little girl on her way to school. The child's cries attracted the attention of some poople in the neighborhood, who beat the dog off, but not until he nearly stripped the clothes from the girl. It appears that the child was not bit. Up to noon the police had been unable to accertain the child's name. Within half an hour after the dog bit the dogs belonging to August Kulage, Eleventh and Fennese streets, and Wm. Schaeffer at Niath and Bremen avenue, Af Twentieth and Bremen avenue, Af Twentieth and Bremen avenue, and the last seen of him he was going towards the West End on a full gailop.

A story was circulated about the City Hall to the effect that Delegate Jas. Sullivan had called on Assessor Temple yesterday to remonstrate against the dismissmal of his friend, Pat Long, from the department. They falled to come to an understanding, and in reply to the Delegate's statements the Assessor told him to get out or he would kick him out. The Delegate said he would get even. Just then Clerk Barrett, led the irate Delegate out of Temple's office. Assessor Temple and Delegate Sullivan were surprised to hear the story, as they had no trouble whatever. The story grew out of some warm words exchanged between Clerk Barrett and Delegate Sullivan, each of whom had a candidate for the vacant place in Mr. Temple's office. While discussing the claims of their respective clients the Delegate and the Clerk exchanged uncomplimentary words on which the story of the Assessor's row was founded. Barrett's words were attributed to Mr. Temple, who has no quarrel with anybody.

LATER.—Mr. Stoddard is said to be fatally wounded. The tragedy is inexplicable. The prisoner persists that it was accidental but shis seems incredible. Stoddard was standing on the third step of the Oity Hall, waiting for a street car, when the pistol was discharged and he foll into the arms of ex-Policeman Brown, shot in the left car, the ball penetrating the right side of the neck. Stoddard was carried into the City Clerk's office, exclaiming: "Don't tell my wife." Chubb, the prisoner, declares the pistol fell from his pocket, but the evidence of eye-witnesses of the affair makes it incredible. Chubb was known to Stoddard, and the belief is that the assassin intended to shoot Brown, an ex-policeman. Chubb is only 21, and has a fair reputation as a workman but is occasionally off. The carrying of a pistol is the worst thing against him. At 2a. m. Stoddard was in a bad condition with no hopes of recovery. this seems incredible. Stoddard

Loomis Ice Company; Jas. A. Smith & Son, J. P. Woodlock and G. H. Donnewald, all mem-bers of the Wholesale Dealers' Association and houses from 17% cents to 20 cents a hundred. This is the outcome of two con-ferences held between the wholesale men and was described in the POST-DISPATCH yester day and was extremely unsatisfactory. The retail men insisted on a reduction from the day and was extremely unsatisfactory. The retail men insisted on a reduction from the wholesate men, so that they could sell at lower rates and still make big profits, and the wholesales men taunted the retail men on the loss of the large customers, such as butchers, grocers, restaurant keepers and others with wasons of their own.

ONE OF THE CHIEF COMPACTS therefore the between their wholesalers and retailers was that the wholesalers should sell to such customers who had their own conveyances and called for lee at the cars and houses at the regular retail price, so as to force such consumers to purchase from the retailers and save this heavy trade to them. In this way the fact that a man had a wagon which he could use to haul his own ice was of mo advantage to him. He was compelled to pay the profits of both wholesaler and retailer and to pay the expense of delivery in addition to delivering his own ice. The combine attempted to force such consumers to pay both dealers. It has falled to do so and the Post-Disparch held up this compact as the most unjust feature of the pool. The consumers refused to submit to any such gouge and went elsewhere for their ice, as the Fost-Disparch had made it possible for them to do by encouraging competition. The retailers were to hold this custom with the help of the wholesalers, but falling to do so the wholesalers refused to submit to the enormous loss of custom which was entailed on them, and matters came to a crisis yesterday. The first conference was warm enough and brought out a bitter controversy, but the second one was hotter still and lasted until 7:30 o'clock. The cars and houses at practically the prices given the pool retailers.

wholesaiers to sell ice to consumers at the cars and houses at practically the prices given the pool retailers.

WHILE THIS IS A BIG CONCESSION and is a victory for a large class of consumers and for the Fost-DISFATCH, there may be a trick in it which may prove that the Greeks are to be feared bearing gifts. The pool men have found to their cost that they are losing the large consumers and that the outside wholesaie dealers have captured this trade. The move has modoubtedly been made to regin this big trade, but it has also been made with the purpose of crushing outside dealers. It may be the last desperate attempt of the pool to save itself, and, while it proves its weakness and the loss it has suffered, consumers should stand by the dealers who came to their relief when they were in the power of the pool. These men have risked their money and have, with a great deal of enterprise, gone outside of the city and bought ice, brought it here and sold it at reasonable prices. The butchers, grocers and others who have benefited by the enterprise of these men should see to it that they are not deserted. It is to their interest to stand by them, because the combine has already shown its temper, and there is no guarantee that should the outsiders be crushed the same prices and methods will be resorted to again. The ouly safety for consumers lies in healthy competition and the only men who will keep competition and the only men who will keep competition and the only men who will keep competition and the people want.

But there is a more serious aspect to the action of the wholesalers with reverte to the Re-

Shat the people want.

But there is a more serious aspect to the action of the wholesalers with regard to the Retail Ice-Dealers' Association. It knocks out the keystone of this structure. One of the most important compacts between the two associations was that no lee should be sold at less than retail prices, barring certain exception to any except members of the Retail Dealer Association, and that no ice should be sold to retailers outside of the association. THIS WAS THE BOND OF UNION

Association, and that no ice should be sold to retailers outside of the association.

THIS WAS THE BOND OF UNION of the retail combine. It was the chain by which the combine was to be maintained. It provided for the boycott of outside dealers and for the entire shutting out of retailers expelled from the association. It was held over the heads of the members as a constant menace, foreing them to accede to and maintain all the rules and regulations of the combine and to maintain the prices, on pain of not only being expelled from the association, but of being cut off from their supplies of ice and rulned in business. The announcements of reductions made by the wholesalers read as if all the gates had been thrown down and any one is at liberty to purchase at wholesale prices. G. H. Donnewald & Co. advertise ice at the same of company advertises it for sale at 17% cents in any quantity; J. D. Woodlock offers lee to customers at 20 cents, and Jas. A. Smith & Son offers it to customers at 18½ cents. This is tearing down the fence of the retail pool and there is no longer any menace to hold over the heads of the members. Any member of the association can do what he pleases, and be expelled from the association for that matter, and still the ice at a slight advance above the prices and by members. It practically amounts to the brashing up of the association.

THE RETAILERS WERE GREATLY INCENSED against the wholesalers do day, and there were strong expressions of indignation against them for their action. It was said that the wholesalers does not be allowed to sell such combine, and got the retailers more they desert them and leave them in the lurch to fight their own outless. Some of the retailers declared, however, that the action of the wholesalers and in out made a resolution to the wholesalers will be already to the action of the wholesalers will be already to the action of the wholesalers will be already to the action of the wholesalers will be already to sell to large consumers. The retailers generally refused t

"Sut does not the action of the wholesalers mean that anyone, whether dealer or consumers, can get lose at this price?"

"Well, it is the butcher, grocer, restaurant and saloon trade that is meant."

"But cannot any dealer get lose at the cars or houses if he wants it?"

"The fact is that there are very few of the outside dealers whose trade we want, because they are not reliable, and are not good pay, so that this question is not an important one."

"But if a dealer can pay for his lee, and wants it, cannot he get it?"

"Is uppose he can get the pays for it, but really that question is not fully settled as yet, and will be talked over further."

"Was there not an agreement that we would not sell to expelled members of the Association?"

"There was an agreement that we would not sell to expelled members of the Association?"

"The advertisements mean just what they state, that ice will be sold at the prices given. As I said there are outside dealers that I would not sell a pound of 'ice to without the cash. There are others again whom I would sell to because they are honest, hard-working men" (Mr. Huse mentioned two dealers who have been expelled from the association as men he would sell to). "Would the retailers agree to this trade, and they garred to let the wholesale dealers. Advertisements were inserted in the newspapers to-day by the Creve Cœur Lake Ice Company, which is controlled by the Huse & Loomis Ice Company; Jas. A. Smith & Son, J.

'They did not agree to it?"

'No, they did not."

'Was there not a serious disagreement between the wholesalers and retailers?"

'There were differences of opinion, certainly, among them and the opinions were expressed."

FROM THE HEATED NATURE
of the conferences there can be little dou'st that the differences were very serious, but they have been in that shape pretty much ever since the Post-Disparch opened out on the pool. The members of the Retailers' Committee would not say what action was taken at their separate meeting yesterday except that Maj. Comfort said the retailers would go on in the same way and maintain the association and the prices all summer. At the office of the retailers' association, on Seventh street and Washington avenue, members were dropping in all day asking about the conference and expressing the greatest surprise at the action of the wholesalers. This action was something of a bomb among them.

The Executive Committee held another meeting this afternoon at 4 o'clock, at which the subject again came up for discussion and a warm time was expected before the meeting closed. The backbone of the association is broken and there is little doubt that the retailers will have to throw up the sponge in their present condition without protection from the wholesalers. There is likely to be a general breaking away in the membership and bids for custom at lower prices.

The combine, which is practically done for, was formed at the close of the winter and its formation was chronicled by the Post-Disparch has never allowed the subject to rest and, backed up partly by the people, the result of its labors is seen in the certain dissolution of the pool. Since then the Post-Disparch has never allowed the subject to rest and, backed up partly by the people, the result of its labors is seen in the certain dissolution of the pool. There is no doubt that $t. Louis will have an abundance of cheap ice this summer as the Post-Disparch has always predicted.

Mr. Pritchett, whom the scorers were courteous enough to designate as "the runner," ambled over the bases and came home. Mr. Shipley repeated this performance. Dr. Kennett and Messrs. Ravasies and Dameron were then successively decided out by the umpire, the boys marked up two runs, and the alumni went to the field.

For the blue stockings Mr. Meacham knocked an easy fly to the gentleman on third base. Mr. Scudder struck out and Mr. Morton, who had reached first on a misunderstanding, ran down to second. The catcher threw wildly over the second-baseman's head, but Mr. Lee, who looked like Pete Browning, was backing up that position and caught the ball. This was so prettly done and incited such professional feeling that Mr. Carr called the side out.

Mr. Davis was thrown out while stealing second. Mr. Francis, after striking some beautiful fouls, was given his base. Mr. Shapleigh, after four trials, was called out. Mr. Horton made a hit to left center which brought Mr. Francis in with the first run for his side. Mr. Meacham, who was resting a short distance from the first base was touched with the ball by Mr. Fritchett. Mr. Meacham was willing to explain the matter but the umpire impolitely decided him out. Mr. Horton in the matine had grown tired of waiting on the bases and had walked home scoring thereby the second run for his side.

Brutal Ravisher Lynched by a Mob in LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 1 .- Sheriff Lewis of Gibson County, Indiana, arrived in the city last night and brought the news of a very senational affair happening in Crawford County Sunday. A14-year-old daughter of John Flan-negan, near Boston, in that county, was carried away and cruelly and foully assaulted and outraged.

He was terrified and quaking with fear. He was securely strapped to a horse and driven back to the spot where he had ravished the girl. He begged for mercy, but his cries were unheeded. He was taken from the horse, his hands tied behind him, and was given two minutes in which to pray. He availed himself of the time allowed, and at the expiration of it a stout sapling was bent down, a short rope tied to the top, with the other end about Davis' neck; six men held down the tree, and when it was released it flew back into position, and Davis was jerked twenty feet into the air. The force threw him over the top of the tree, and as the rope brought him up short on the other side his neck was broken. The body was riddled with bullets by the crowd and was allowed to hang there until yesterday morning, when it was out down by his father and given burial.

My disease (Psoriasis) commenced on my head in a spot not larger than a cent. It spread rapidly all over my body and got under my nails. The scales would drop off of me all the time, and my suffering was endiess, and without relief. One thousand dollars would not tempt me to have this disease over again. I am a poor man, but feel rich to be relieved of what some of the doctors said was leprosy, some ringworm, psoriasis. etc. I took. . and Sarsaparillas over one year and a half, but no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I went to two or three doctors and no cure. I cannot praise the CUTICURA REMEDIES too much. Mr. Morton went to second on a grounder to right, and the field came in very close to shut off any chance of his getting home, a discrimination which Mr. Scudder rebuked by making a two-base hit into left center. Mr. Carpenter, the next batter, seized the opportunity and ran down to first. Mr. Davis was also about to follow the example, when another ball was produced and the pitcher began throwing at him. Mr. Davis hit the ball, as he afterwards explained, in self-defense, and ran to second base. The cheering was so deafening and excitement among the carriage horses, who were gradually getting on to the racket was such that Mr. Francis, the next batter, had to pantomime his desires regarding a ball. He got four of them just where he wanted them and Shapleigh came to the rescue with a little fly which Mr. Kennett who was on third base caught, but subsequently explained to Mr. Shapleigh's satisfaction. Mr. Davis who was conducting a private conversation with the short-stop, Mr. Lee, was touched out by Mr. Kennett. The score stood 7 to 9 in favor of the University, and Mr. Carr, whose talent for futures enabled him to compute the probable result, estimated that nine innings would produce a score of 27 to 21, and proposed to compromise on that basis. After a short consultation the offer was refused, and the scorers proceeded to take testimony.

The pitcher touched him as he went by on his stomach. Mr. Shipley knocked a good fly to center, which Mr. Morton caught on the second bounce and threw wildly across Mr. Shipley's line, upon which a dispute arose as to whether the game was being played under the old town-ball rules or the Marquis of Queensberry. As Mr. Shipley was developing some strength as a runner, Mr. Scudder, the third baseman, borrowed the ball from the pitcher and fired it at Mr. Shipley, striking him on the ankle and making one of the most effective plays of the game. Dr. Kennett was caught out on a foul. Mr. Dameron—who reached the bag a moment later—in a Græco-Roman wrestling match. OUR programme for the organization of the Cleveland Reception Committee is a short one: it is "politicians to the rear. the people to the front."

A COMPARISON of the Blaine and Sher man matter in this issue of the Post-Dis-PATCH may incline the reader to believe that BLAINE and SHERMAN are very much alike, -especially SHERMAN.

THE war which was generally suppose to have ended some twenty-two years ago hoke out afresh to-day at Spring field in the diseased brain of JOHN SHER MAN. It is not likely to spread.

THE Granite Mountain stockholders who fled from the city because they could not afford to pay pool prices for ice may now return. The angel of the Post-DISPATCH has "troubled the pool," and plain citizens are now able to buy large chunks of

THE fee-pool has succumbed to the vigorous and continued attacks made on it by the Post-Disparch in co-operation with the outside dealers, and with the backing of that public opinion which is now so frequently asserting itself in St. Louis. The fight is practically over and it is not likely that the pool dealers will care to repeat their painful and uppleasant experience, but the lesson should not be forgotten. This little skirmish with the ice-pool is merely an incident in tha universal campaign which is now going on in this country in every department of business as well as of politics, the campaign of the people against rings, monopolies and extortionists.

SENATOR JOHN SHERMAN called up the spirit of Eliza Pinksron at the Illinois Capitol, and through him as a medium she proclaimed the charge that CLEVE-LAND was elected over BLAINE by frauds on the ballot-box. If Mr. SHERMAN knew this, why did he not hasten to the South and have BLAINE counted in regardless of the ballot-box as he did in the case of HAYES? The frauds which he says have controlled the ballot-box in the South for so many years were all subject to the diction of the United States Courts. the Judges, Marshals and District-Attorneys being all appointed by and under the control of Republican Administraother party will have to be trusted the laws for the purification of one and the protection of the ballot.

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune says: "Twenty years ago and more this Government gave free farms to the brave men who had risked their lives for the union and survived the perils of swamp and of battle. Mr. George now declares that their ownership of their farms is robbery, and that private ownership of land ought to be destroyed by a taxation which would make the soldier's homestead valueless to him. Dr. McGlynn accepts the theories of Mr. George, pisinly because he does not understand them, for his eloquent gratitude to the brave men who made possible the grand development of the past generation is clearly sincere. Yet his theories would not only strip these soldiers of their reward of their fidelity, but would take from the land that greatest cause of its marvelous growth in population, wealth and prosperity, the opportunity for every industrious worker to secure the ownership of his home or farm. Wellis titfor the nation that the gratitude of its people to heroes living and THE TRIBUNE.

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "The Mexican and American authorities on the Rio Grande in their recent joint action against gangs of thieves and smugglers appear to better advantage than when engaged in shielding law-breakers in the name of patriotism. The outlaws who infest this river prey impartially upon the inhabitants of both banks, as well as upon the two Governments. The justice meted out to them on the Mexican side, to which they were driven by the Texas sheriff and his posse was rather swift, some of the worst criminals being executed without trial. While it is not in accordance with the ideas of the administration of law, probably no protest will be made, whatever the nationality of the victims. Labaisa, the point raided, is a favorite resort of revolutionists crossing from Santa Maria, and Sheriff Brito proceeded against them once before in July of last year, and it is to be presumed that he attacked the recent occupants of the place in their capacity as plunderers of ranches and not as political plotters."

DISQUE'S DEATH,

Brutal Wife Murderer Hanged in the ne wife murderer, suffered the extreme enalty of the law in the westerly corridor of the Hudson County Jail, Jersey City, a few minutes after 10 o'clock this morning. The ademned man maintained his fortitude to last. The following is a story of the crime which he was punished:

for which he was punished:
About 3 o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, October 6, 1885, the wife of Policeman Michael Desmond, who occupied the lower floor of the house in which Disque lived heard the latter quarreling with his wife. Then came the sound of a heavy fail, after which all was still. About half an hour later Disque came down-stairs dressed in his best. He met Mrs. Desmond's little girl in the hallway. "For God's sake, Kittle," said he, "take cars of Carrie and annie until I come back." The girl promised o look out for the two children, who were laying in the yard. Disque never returned.

and I cut her throat. I cut it good, too. I guess hie is dead. Here, is the key of my room, you had better see about it."

PRICHITUL SCINE.

Officers Kaiser and Nelson were sent to Disque's home. Theyfound Officer Desmond, who had been awakened by his wife, peeting through the keyhole of Disque's room. The door was opened and a frightful scene was revealed. Lying on the floor in a pool of blood lay Mrs. Disque's body. Her throat had been cut from ear to car in three distinct gashes. The dead woman's lo-months-old baby had erawled to the side of the body and was patting its cooled in vain for the smile which till then had always greeted its appreach. In the adjoining bedroom were found Disque's bloodstained suit and undergarments, the bloody water in which he had washed his hands, and the keenbladed knife with which the deed was done. Both rooms gave evidence of the woman's DESPERATE STRUGGLE FOR LIFE.

Her hands were cut to the bone where the knife had been drawn through her fingers and bloody fluger marks on her hair showed how her head had been drawn back to slaughter her. The remains were photographed and the pictures formed an important link in the chain of evidence upon which Disque was convicted. He was sentenced to be hanged March 36, but upon a writ of error being secured the execution was postponed. Last April the Supreme Court affirmed the judgment against him and he was sentenced to be hanged to day.

Twelve years ago the father of Disque died in the arms of his friend Heintze, who has since become Sheriff. This morning the Sheriff was compelled to officiate at the execution of his old friend's son. Disque, during the past few days, showed but little concern over the fate which awaited him. He are hearty meals, siept regularly, and chatted brightly with his keepers. His last request was that as few persons as possible should be admitted to the secution refused to see his mother last week, as he believed the shock of the sad parting would kill her. Thear that the Emperor of Austria's jubilee resent to the Queen will be a case of the finest erial tokay. This wine contains a grea quantity of phosphorous acid and it is a wonderful tonic. It was Prince Albert's invariable custom to drink one glass of tokay every day after dinner, and he had as much respect for it as a 'pick-me-up' as King George IV. had for his famous black cherry brandy. A gift of tokay is no small affair at Vienna. The Emperor Ferdinand wished to make a present of a quantity of this wine to the late King of the Netherlands, and as it was thought by the Court officials that there was sufficiently old in the imperial cellars, a and bottles of the finest and oldest tokay in the world were procured from Oracow at the monstrous price of £85s. 4d. a bottle

LARGE EXPENDITURE OF PUBLIC MONEY.

The object of the Lord Chamberlain and of his officials is, apparently, first, to expend the largest possible amount of public money when ere is a ceremonial which is to be paid for entary vote; secondly, to reduce number of court entertainments as far as ge these Court fetes so as to cause as much heonvenience as possible. The profilgate ex-ravagance of the Westminster Abbey arrangenents is as flagrant a scandal as the parsin manifested in drawing up the meagre pro nts. It is monstrous that only two balls nd two concerts should be given during the ubilee season, when London will be filled with royalties from abroad. The number is even utterly inadequate in ordinary seasons d the shameful manner in which the invita tions are jobbed makes matters considerably ider official convenience in fixing the dates or the palace fetes, and the balls and concerts took place on Wednesdays, so that both the Ministers and the Opposition could attend without causing trouble at Westminster. This however, the state entertainments are all fixed for Parliament nights, and one would really suppose that so infelicitous an arrange ent can scarcely have been made for all fou

THE BUCKINGHAM GARDEN PARTIES. Efforts are being made to induce the Queen to give two garden parties at Buckingham e, the first on the 28th of June, and the nd on the 1st of July. As at present aranged, there is to be only one, and the per-ons officially concerned in making the ranged, there is to be only one, and the persons officially concerned in making the arrangements are not unreasonably appalled at the prospect of sending out upwards of 7,000 invitations. It is quite certain that the majority of those invited will come, and what on earth will become of such a mob if the weather be unravorable. Westminster Hospital will profit largely by the Abbey function on the filst, as its windows command a full view of the west door where the Queen and royalities are to enter the building. Seats are to be arranged in the hospital and there are to be temporary wooden stands outside it, and no doubt a handsome sum will be realized. The Dean and Chapter of Westminster will also reap arioh harvest from the stands which are to be erected outside of St. Margaret's Church and at all other available positions. The occupants of all these places will be better off than many people within the Abbey, as they will see both the arrival and departure of the royal procession.

AUSTRIA'S REPRESENTATIVE. The Emperor of Austria was anxious to comto England for the jubilee, as he has never ed this country, but I hear that the hint o the project was by no means warmly received at Windsor. So His Majesty resolved to send the Crown Prince Rudolph as his representa hould be accompanied by his wife, the Archiuchess Stephanie. It seems, however, that er physicians do not approve of her under aking the expedition, so in all probability the Court of Vienna will be represented only by the Crown Prince and by Prince and Princess Phillip of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, the latter be ing the eldest daughter of the King of the gians and the sister of the Archduchess CAPETOWN JUSTICE. A man named Bowman, who was butcher on board one of the Union Line steamers, had the nisfortune to witness an attempted murder a Capetown early in the spring, and as he could not find sureties for his appearance at the trial, he was sent to prison. Having already lost his situation in consequence of his detention, eight weeks elapsed before the trial and then it appeared that when in the jail the unlucky Bowman had been stripped of his clothing, placed in a hard labor cell arrayed in prison clothes and fed on bread and water. In fact, as the judge observed, he had been regarded as a felon and had been grossly ill-treated, instead of having every con sidera ion meted out to him as ought to have be the case. I should vastly like to know what compensation the Cape Government will make to Bowman, whose painful experience shows ow slovenly and chaotic are the prison ar-committees. The official bond of Water Commissioner Holman was received and referred to the Public Improvements Committee.

THE HOUSE.

When the House of Delegates met last evening a bill was presented by the Board of Public Improvements to connect the water service of Forest Park with the city service. The present water supply at the park is too small to sprinkle the roads. Delegate Clarke introduced a bill repealing the ordinance fixing the location of hack-stands. Delegate Mohan then introduced a resolution to apppoint a committee consisting of the House and Council to examine the Water-works. This brought up a discussion on Delegate Hays' bill to appropriate $3,000 with which to bay for an engineers' commission. Delegate Stone astempted to reduce the size of the proposed committee to five members, but the House would move to table his bill at the proper time as the only object he had was to direct attention to the subject. The resolution was adopted and the House adjourned.

PRESIDENT GREEN SAYS THE JUMPERS MUST GO OVER IT.

of Estries—The Chase to Start From the Club-House—Winners on Other Tracks— Averages of League Clubs-Sporting

President Green of the Fair Grounds Association is quite enthusiastic over the programme of the opening day of the races Saturday. He said to-day that it was his belief that such a programme was never seen on any track in the country. The big Missouri steeple-chase, which be the last event on the card has a collection of jumpers entered in it that will make the sport the most exciting ever seen on this track. President Green says that the race will be over the full steeple-chase course, water jumps and all. Last year the water jumps had to be exeluded, for the very simple reason that the horses utterly refused to go over them. Mr. Green has decided this year to exercise no enlency whatever in this respect, and horses that have not had the requisite training or who lack the courage to face the water will have "to go by the board." In order to give the ladies an opportunity to see the beginning, the middle and the finish of the hurdle races, all of these, induding Saturday's big affair, will start from the finish of the hurdle races, all of these, including Saturday's big affair, will start from the Club-house. The Missouri steeple-chase is a sweepstakes of $100 each, h. f., with $1,000 added by the Association. This sum of added money is something rare with steeple-chasesthe usual amount of added money being $400 or thereabouts. There were eighteen entries with one declaration, which will make the race worth about $3,800.

A good many of the entries will doubtless start, making a very fair field. Corrigan's Tennessee, $, Ten Broeck—Lizzie Hoover, is the most promising one in the lot and ought to have the call in the betting. He is a jumper from away back and has been going over the sticks in fine shape. In fact he is too much of a jumper and his tendency to go high rather holds him if anything, but that will not seriously interiere with his chances. Corrigan also has Woodward in the list and he has been showing up splendidly on the course. Then there is Aurelian, whose trainer says he is as fine as silk and ear Fump stone walls without an effort; Ascoli and Tear Blanket, both of whom are regarded as uncertain quantities. Wellington is also out in the early morning and is doing quite well. Bucephalus is a new arrival and has not been out but once or twice since he got in.

A good deal of money can be won on the race, and if Tennessee can go after he gets over he ought to come first after he gets over he ought to come first after he gets over he ought to come first after he gets over he would arrive here day after to-morrow. Sheridan comes direct from Brooklyn. He will hold the horses together during the meeting as no one but Sheridan can.

At the conference of the interested associations on Saturday evening the following dates were agreed upon for this season: Brooklyn Jockey Club, first meeting, June 10 to 17 inclusive; autumn meeting, September 19 to October 1 inclusive. According to the showing Hanover made on Thursday last he is one of the very best racers seen on this side of the Atlantic and quite equal to The Bard. Had McLaughlin lef his horse out it is very certain that he could have besten Ten Broeck's record of 1:3% for the mile. Hanover ran the distance within a second of the figures given, and at no part of the race was the animal fully extended.

At Latonia the meeting will end on Saturday next. Turfmen in the West are disgusted at the iarge fields at Latonia. Entrance costs nothing, and owners are so eager to run that in one races there have been no less than thirty-one entries. Of course this necessitated a division, and three races were made of what was meant to be one. Now, if the association charsed an entrance fee of sie each, entries would be limited to reasonable proportions. As it is, another such fatal accident as that which occurred at Brighton Beach two years ago will bring down upon the racing officers deserved repreach.

The champion 2-year-old has yet to be seen, but the premier 3-year-old has most certainly appeared in the shape of hanover, who is owned by the Dwyer Bros. Many will fecollect that these racing brothers brought out the phenomenal 3-year-old Tremont last season, who not only won thirteen events right off the resi, but showed phenomenal speed when his rider let go of his head. At the end of the season of 1888, both Phil and Miles Dwyer said that they considered Tremont a stone superior to his stable companion Hanover. What the difference between them now is cannot be ascertained. If they have preserved their relative rates of speed and staying power, then America can boast of having the very best 3-year-olds that were ever seen anywhere.

LONDON, June 1 .- The President of the Cam bridge University Boat Club publishes a letter addressed to the students of the university, in which he says that the college clubs seem disinclined to subscribe toward paying the ex-penses of sending the Cambridge crew to America for the purpose of rowing against the Harvard University crew. He therefore, appeals to individual members of the university to assist in raising the neces-sary amount. He urges the importance of the sary amount. He drages are importance of the proposed race and says:
"We ought to initiate such contests with the American colleges, as they would be sure to draw the two institutions into closer relations. Nothing but good can result from such meetings."

the national game of base ball has been subjected for years past. Says he:

"It seems to me that we Americans, in our desire to disprove the charge brought against us of being overhoasiful, have gone to the other extreme, and rather delight in deerying ourselves. Take, for instance, this very national game of ours, which is, in my opinion, the emperor of all sports. What writer of reputation has ever condescended to say a good word for it? And yet why shouldn't he?

"Take the Englishmen and their national game; the ilbraries are full of books about it, and no English gentleman would feel that his education was complete unless he knew something of it, and could handle the bat and ball fairly well; and the literary men of the little island love to tell of the days when they, too, went to the crease and batted out victory for their side, or by a marvelous catch in the field saved the game.

"Our literary men would faint if any one accused them of making a three-base hit or a one-handed stop and throw. In fact, I don't believe one of them knows what those things are. To my mind, there is not anything in the world equal to the pleasure of hitting the ball a fair smack on the 'trade mark' and sending it spinning through the air; or, after making a long, hard run, reaching up and grabbing the flying sphere and holding it."

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The President and the Vacant Supreme with the President in regard to the vacancy in the United States Supreme Court, caused by the United States Supreme Courf, caused by the death of Justice Wood, said to a representative of the Associated Press last night, that while the President has decided to give the place to the South, he is satisfied that there is nothing in the Constitution, she law or the precedents which confines the selection of the appointee to the States included in the circuit to which the deceased justice was assigned. The official explained that while Congress fixes the boundaries of the judicial circuits, the court itself makes the assignment of judges, and it has frequently happened that a index appointed from one State is assigned to a circuit in an entirely different section of the country, and also that when a vacancy has occurred in any particular circuit it has been frequently filled by an appointment from a State altogether outside of its jurisdiction.

sind-short-haul principle, and also what is known as the retail clause, and leaves no power to change rates except by future legislation.

The Committee on Railroads held an important macting this meaning in the Seaate chamber. The room was densely crowded by members and other persons. Mr. Wann, Assistant Genoral Freight Agent of the Chicaco and Alton Railroad at St. Louis, was the first to appear before very ready the first to appear before the first to appear before the his auswers to all questions presented him by the members of the committee. He favored a good, strong railroad bill that will prevoit excition and unjust discrimination. He believed that believed the commissioners schedule and also the schedule fixed by the Claycomb bill and some other bills, all of which he thought were too low. He believed that such a schedule of rates as any of these if enacted into a law would seriously crippie many, if not all, the roads in the State, and would, he felt sure, prevent his road from building any further extensions or branches. In fact, he felt that such a schedule of rates as any of these if enacted into a law would seriously crippie many, if not all, the roads in the State, and would, he felt sure, prevent his road from building any further extensions or branches. STOCK AND BOND BROKERS,

NEW YORK, June 1, 11 a. m.—The opening of the stock market this morning was about steady, first prices showing only slight changes from last evening's final figures, which were evenly divided between gains and losses. There was a moderately active business, in which the coal stocks. Wheeling and Lake Erie, St. Paul and Northwestern, were conspicuous, the remainder being dull. Prices were strong from the opening, and advances in the general list extending to $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, were established, while Reading, assessment paid, and Wheeling and Lake Erie gained 11s, and Jersey Central 1 per cent, the market becoming decidedly active. The market toward il o'clock yielded small fractions, and became more quiet, and at 11 o'clock is moderately active and about steady.

NOON.—Money is easy at 44/265 per cent. Bar sliver, 160/ac. The stock market was quiet after 11 o'clock, and remained without special feature of importance. Prices continued fairly steady until after 11:30, when they became heavy. Alton & Terre Haute was particularly strong, however, and advanced 114 per cent. Toward noon the market became very dull; and at noon it is dull and rather heavy. MANCHESTER, England, June I.—The Guardian in its commercial article says: "Owing to the holidays but little business has been done, and last week's inactivity is still prominent. The cloth sections report a small miscellaneous business. There have been some offers for fair quantities for India staples, mostly below the lowest prices touched, and sellers generally refused to entertain them. Yarns are in poor demand. Spinners are offering their production freely at previous rates. The prospect of organizing a short time movement is not encouraging, but in various ways the out-turn of yarh and also of goods is lessening."

CATTLE—Receipts to day were very much lighter and the quality more desirable, that is there were more good fat natives and fewes Texas cattle. Salesmen, in view of the light runs and the general good demand, naturally demanded stronger prices, and after trads was fairly started all good fat natives and especially those of light and medium weights sold at a shade stronger prices and big heavy cattle although no better were at least steady, as also were Texans. Business was quite active and by noon the offerings had been largely reduced and the prospects for a thorough cleaning up of everything was very favorable. The basis for sales was as follows:

Archbishop Corrigan Confers Priestly Order Upon Rev. Henry Van Rennsalear.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, June 1.—Archbishop Corrigat conferred priestly orders upon the Rev. Henry Van Rennsalear, a member of the well known old New York family and a conver from the Protestant Episcopal ministry, in S Patrick's Cathedral at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Mr. Van Rennsalear is the younger son of Col. Henry Van Rennsalear and a descendant of Patroon Kilien. He studied at the general theological seminary of this city, and had charge of a little Protestant Episcopal church in Hoboken. He was very high in church, and in Paris, eleven years ago, with a sister who had been a Protestant nun, he was converted to the Oatholic faith. He entered the Society of Jesus and made his novitiate at Roe Hampton, England, and spent the concluding part of it in Frederick, Md. Among the companions of his novitiate were Thomas Ewing Sherman, Gen. Sherman's eldest son, and Thomas Kernan, son of the late Senator from New York. Mr. Sherman is not yet ordained and is in the Jesuit College at Detroit. Mr. Kernan's health failed and he had to abandon his studies. Mr. Van Rennsalear remained three years in the Jesuit House of Studies at Woodstock, Md., and he has since taught in Catholic college. One of his sisters, Miss Euphema Van Rennsalear, is Sister Mary Dolores, who has charge of the infirmary in St. Vincent De Paul's Foundling Asylum in Sixty-ninth street. She is a Sister of Charity. Her mother was a King, and on rare occasions she is seen at the country house of the Kings on Long Island in glazed bonnet and black gown. She was at the church yesterday. Another sister also has joined the Catholic Church. The mother and brothers are Protestants. Mr. Van Rennsalear is 36 years old. He has written several plays, and has a fine baritone voice, and is something of a painter. He is to devote his life to work with the Jesuit missionaries among the North American Indians. morning. Mr. Van Rennsalear is the young son of Col. Henry Van Rennsalear and a de

FEARS FOUL PLAY.

Daniel H. Prindable Says His Son Wa

Drowned on Monday. Daniel H. Prindable of No. 1206 North Ninth i at the Morgue this morning and stated that the man who was drowned Monday evening by falling from one of the barges of an excursion boat which was returning from on Barracks was his son, Daniel F. The body has not yet been recovered, but Mr. Prindable is positive that it was his son who fell overboard, and he fears that he may have met with foul play. The young man was 26 years of age, nearly 6 feet high, weighed over 180 pounds and was very powerful. He was also an unusually expert swimmer, his father stating that he could swim the river from bank to bank several times without stopping. At Jefan unusually expert swimmer, his father stating that he could swim the river from bank to bank several times without stopping. At Jefferson Barracks he was seen to speak to a couple of young women and when he was drowned they and their escorts were on the barge near where he fell in. The father thinks it barely possible that his son may have had some trouble with the companions of these women, sithough he knows nothing positively in realthough he knows nothing positively in re-gard to the matter, it being a mere conjecture of his. Mr. Prindable says his son left the young man who was with him on the boat, stating he would return in a few minutes. He had not been gone five minutes when there was a cry of a man overboard, and when his companion rushed forward he saw the two young women and their escorts standing near companion rushed forward he saw the two young women and their escorts standing near where the man had fallen in, and the women were screaming with fright. The father believes that if not disabled in some way his son could easily have saved himself by swimming. His theory is that if the young man did not meet with foul play he must have been sucked under the boat or been struck by the wheel. Mr. Prindable is now endeavoring to find eye-witnesses to the accident and the address of a man living somewhere on North Broadway, who ordered the pilot to stop the boat at the time.

ts bi-weekly meeting in the parlors of the Lindell Hotel Saturday.

Secretary Steger, who has been ill for several days was at his desk this morning.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE is awaiting the settlement of three questions before making its final report. Chairman Sampson is waiting for answers to twelve or thirteen personal letters which he wrote calling for contributions. Three of the railroads are still to be heard from. The Exposition subscription has still to be announced. A meeting of the Exposition directors was held recently and a committee appointed to confer with the Finance Committee of the Grand Army as to the amount to be contributed by the Exposition Association. The Committee consists of Jos. Hill, Jerome Hill and D. M. Houser.

THE PRESIDENT'S RECEPTION.

A number of the members of the Grand Army are laboring under a misapprehension regarding the President's visit and the proper way to receive him. The Grand Army proper had nothing to do regarding the President's visit and the proper way to receive him. The Grand Army proper had nothing to do with inviting the President to visit the city. The invitation was originally extended by the Executive Committee, composed of citizens appointed to arrange for the reception of the Grand Army. That invitation was supplemented by the citizens of St. Louis. The reception of the President is in the hands of the Grand Army Executive Committee. They can ask the Mayor or any one else to take charge of it for them, but the matter new rests in their hands.

BLAINE

The Maine Statesman Chats About His European Trip.

An Interesting Interview, With a Slight Reference to Politics.

Denial of the Rumored Gladstone Home-Rule Campaign.

rchard's Speech Responsible for the De feat in 1884-The Presidential Question Skillfully Dodged-Mr. Blaine in Excel lent Health-His Simple Life and Ten About the Last Campaign-The Arduous Labor of Speech-Making-Out-Doo Speaking Less Fatiguing-No More Book Writing-The Plumed Knight in Doubt as to Whether He or Cleveland Was Elected—The Close Contest in New York.

By Telegraph to the POST-DISPATCH. AUGUSTA, Me., June 1.-James G. Blaine who is the most inacessible of public men to representatives of the press, was seen at his home here vesterday evening by a correspondent of the Post-Disparch. Mr. Blaine has carefully avoided making any statement or expressions of opinion for publication since his defeat in 1884. Several times during the past winter reporters have called on the Maine statesman, but he has on all occasion declined to be interviewed. The correspond ent explained as the reason for his call that although not now a public man, Mr. Blaine citizens in private life, and that his plans and to the whole public of America, trrespective of party. When the Post-Dispatch correspondent called at Mr. Blaine's home, his known as "Gail Hamilton," who is making visit to Augusta, but will not accompany Mr. Blaine on his European trip as has been down from his study and entered the large drawing-room on house. He walked at a brisk pace, and his appearance has not changed since he was see in public during the late campaign. His voice is as powerful as ever; he is in good flesh and much more active than most men ten years his junior. Mr. Blaine's beard has grown perhaps a little whiter and he has lost the brown, sunburnt color from his face which his out-door life during the summer usually gives him. If Mr. Blaine is a sick man his appearance gives no hint of it. On the contrary, he looks like a man of thoroughly robust health and unimpaired vigor. To the Post-DISPATCH correspondent Mr. Blaine said:

THE TRIP ABBOAD. "I am going abroad and expect to be gon about a year. Mrs. Blaine and my two daughers, Marguerite and Hattle, will make up the party. I have engaged state-rooms on the German Lloyd's steamship Ems, which sails June 8, Wednesday week. We intend to spend considerable time traveling through Great Britain. After England we will possibly go into Scotland and Ireland; then I think we shall spend a little time in Germany, and after that take France. By this time it will possibly be getting so late in the year that Spain and Italy will be comfortable. We intend to make a tour to both of these countries and spend next winter along the Mediterranean. long visits in Rome and Greece, perhaps stop brief time in Constantinople and visit the scenes of the recent earthquakes in the south have made no definite outline for the trip, but expect to follow about the same route followed Continental tourists. I do not know o any particular by-path we have thought of."

NO HOME-RULE CAMPAIGN. "How about the report, Mr. Blaine, that you contemplate in some way assisting Mr. Gladstone and the Home Rule party?' "That story is purely imaginary. I neve had such an idea in my mind. No, indeed, I shall do nothing of the kind." "Does it strike you that such a plan would be a grand one, and identify you with a most worthy movement?" "Now, what do you mean, exactly?" Mr Blaine asked. "I refer to the suggestion that if you, as on of America's foremost citizens, should cross the ocean to help the great leader of the Home Rule party in England to establish Irish rights -by speeches at public dinners, to which you undoubtedly will be asked, and perhaps at public meetings"-"Such an action would be simply meddling with the affairs of another notion," said Mr. "What would be thought if som prominent Englishman should take the stump luring one of our national campaigns?"

"Would not such a course abroad great help a candidate for the Presidency here, he correspondent ventured to say.
"Not at all," said Mr. Blaine. "It would

MR. BLAINE'S HEALTH. "It has been widely published that your trip o Europe is for the benefit of your health. Is that the case?" 'It is very curious about that report. I have been made sick by various newspapers at va-rious times, and first and last have been made to have nearly every malady that I know of. have had Bright's disease, a torpid liver, affection of the heart, paralysis, nervous debility and, well, I don't know now, but at any rate a good many other diseases. As I said, it is curious how those stories start. Now I have seen a hundred different versions of my sick ness out in the Indian Territory,"

"What are the facts about that?" "It was a cold; nothing more. I left here when there were four feet of snow out there in my garden, and we had just finished one of d railroad excursion to Springfield, Ill., the severest winters I ever remember in makey, June 5, 1887. Tickets for round Maine. In about nine days I passed into a following dinner at leading hotels. St.

fact, been singularly free from sickness. uble of any kind."

"To what do you attribute your goo STRICTLY TEMPERATE.

"Well, I have a very strong constitution and more than that I have taken great care myself. I believe I owe a great deal to this.
For instance, I have always been careful to keep dry feet. I have no bad habits and have never been addicted to the use of stimulants. I don't smoke or use tobacco in any form, in fact I never had a piece of tobacco in my mouth. I never took stimulants; I don't know the taste of rum, whisky, brandy or gin. I have, to be sure, at times taken a glass of claret, but nothing more. As a matter of fact I never cared for tobacco or wines, al gh my boys all use them." "It has been frequently stated, Mr. Blaine, that you have suffered from indigestion?"

NOT AN EPICURE. "No, that is not true. I have always been as they say, 'a small eater.' I am not an epicure and my diet is as simple now as it was when I was a boy on a Pennsylvania farm This fact, as well as my not caring for wine or tobacco, is no particular credit, because it is the result of the lack of any desire for high living. I never cared for eating, and I suppose my meals every day are as simple as those of any farmer in Maine. No, I never was troubled with indigestion at all. I believe that nost troubles come from carelessness and es ecially from wet feet. Now, I always carry a pair of rubbers with me and usually a light and a heavy overcoat."

STRAIN OF THE LAST CAMPAIGN "Do you find that your powers of mental and physical endurance were impaired by the train of the last campaign?"

"I think not. For six weeks during my Western trip I did a great deal of hard work. I nade 486 speeches in six weeks and was traveling all the time. My hardest day was when I made twenty-nine stump speeches in one day. Of course the speeches were only from ten to twelve or fifteen minutes in length, but such a quantity of them were harder than one or two long ones. A short stump speech is more wearing that one of an hou more, because you must cut off all ntroduction and condense a hundred facts nto ten sentences. Well, I traveled through he West for six weeks and on November 6 wo days after the election, I became con vinced that Mr. Cleveland was to be given a najority of the electoral votes, and began the lay on my book. For fourteen months ! wrote fifteen pages of foolscap manuscrip every day. I felt no ill effects from the work of the campaign and began immediately writing my book without feeting the need of any

NOT A PUBLIC MAN. "Don't you consider that an author of books of general interest which are generally read by e public is, in a sense, a public man?"

"I hardly think so. I am not a public man Private life undisturbed by intrusion is one of the greatest privileges of American liberty. I think a man who is not before the public, an s a candidate for no office ought not to be followed by the newspapers. I have been importuned for interviews, but I have no opinons on public questions, and I make a prac tice of avoiding newspaper men because my confidence has been betrayed so frequently, and I have been misquoted and made to say things that I never did say and never thought s soon as a man opens his mouth to a reporter he is then in his power. Now, I told you I ad nothing to say and would not be inter viewed on public matters. I am perfectly villing to tell you for publication that I am going abroad and of my plans so far as made, f that is of any interest to you, and to tell you that my health is first-rate, and that I never ter or stronger. But I do positively refuse to discuss political matters further than what little I have said to you, if that can be considered political, because I am not before he public and have no opinions to express to anybody. When a man is not prominently be fore the public there is very little interest fell in him.' ample, he has not been in the public eye for ong time, and yet he is still a person of inerest," the Post-Disparch correspondent of France and adjoining portions of Italy. I so great prominence he has almost entirely have made no definite outline for the trip, but 'Well, now I don't think so. For a man of interest is felt in his movements now, and I drifted into a discussion of summ a sale."

NO MORE BOOK WRITING "Mr. Blaine, are you contemplating writing nother book?'

"It has been suggested that you intended to write something on your impressions of Europe?"

"No. I have no such intention " "Will you take a private secretary or a stengrapher with you?"

"No. indeed. That sort of thing is exactly what I intend to avoid. I shall do no work of any kind. I go for the trip and my own pleasure. I have done all in the line of authorship I mean to do. I was a newspaper man myself once. I was the editor of the Portland Advertiser for several years, and after that was conected with the Kennebec Journal. That was some time ago, however, and newspapering has changed wonderfully since then. The facilities of telegraphing, and other things have made it possible to build up great news-papers which would have been out of the uestion in my day. But the daily papers now are printing a great deal of matter every day that I don't think is strictly news. The special articles and a great deal of other matter has peen absorbed into the newspapers, which is not strictly within their province."

PUBLIC MEN AND NEWSPAPERS. "There is one thing the London papers have that our papers have never adopted, and that is the special contributions and editorials written now and then by men outside of the profession who are eminent authorities on various subjects—£5 men, I think, such an Irish policy as I have suggested they call them. They are not journalists, but and foreign matters, and are able to write exhaustively and thoroughly on these subjects.
It is not the £5 that they write for, although a man would rather have the money in his reporters heard it, and fext day every paper pocket than not, of course. What they ntribute is interesting and instruct-necessary reading. Still, I suppose it out in Indiana they had it that I said ituld be hard to find the number of men here that could or would write an occasional article that can be found in London. I have no doubt the American press will come to this pers to read every day-some I subscribe to. average to open thirty papers every day. I cannot undertake to read all that there is in every one of them, but I can usually find time to read what interests me in most of that I was not elected. It was a matter of less time to read what interests me in most of them. Besides the regular papers a great many are sent me from all parts of the country with articles marked."

but some are from editors asking for an exac tatement of what my condition really is. "Do you answer these?"

'Oh, no; not as a rule." "When a false rumor is started, don't you ieny it?'

"No, I have not denied any newspaper re ports for years. When they first had me sick with all sorts of maladies it used to trouble me a little, but I pay no attention to such ma ers now." REMARKABLE NERVES.

The Post-Dispatch correspondent then sked Mr. Blaine if it was true that his nerves had received a severe strain from the hard work of the last campaign, as was reported at the time. In reply Mr. Blaine smiled and extended his arm, holding his thumb and index finger together for several minutes. In that time not a tremor or vibration could be detected. then said, still smiling: "My physician in the Indian Territory had me hold a wineglassfull of water that way, and watched to see if I spilled a drop. For a man of 57 he told me I had a remarkable set of nerves. I never was bothered by what they call 'nervousness. could always sleep well and eat well when the time came. The Post-Dispatch correspondent had bee in conversation with Mp. Blaine for two hours nd on rising to leave Mr. Blaine put on his hat and accompanied him a few blocks along the street. The ex-Senator seemed as strong as ever, and on turning to go back to his house he walked at a brisk pace and was evidently still enjoying the robust health and vigor that

BLAINE AT THE DEPOT. Later in the day, while the correspondent was waiting at the railroad station for the afternoon train for Bar Harbor, Mount Desert, and whither other duties called him. Mr. Blaine and his wife entered the depot. He was plainly dressed in a dark suit with a black ercoat and a heavier one on his arm. He ore a standing collar with a black tie, and in his shirt front, which was exposed by cut vest, were two large plain gold studs. The only striking portion of his dress was a pearl-colored tall hat which had evidently been worn last season. Passing a beautifu lake called Newport Pond the conversation

GROWTH OF SUMMER RESORTS. Mr. Blaine said: "The growth of summe the people. But they are an institution that will always exist. Bar Harbor, without question, will be the most famous watering-place is possibly the coolest place in summer on the coast. I think that Maine is destined to be the State for summer visitors. Cottages and all over Mount Desert Island. It is a wonderful coast, with indentations and picturesque islands and scarcely a spot that is not a fine situation for a cottage. The more people's attention is directed to our sceners the more popular our coast is growing. After going over his cottage with the Post-DISPATCH correspondent, pointing out the view from various parts and giving the history Mr. Blaine took a seat on the plazza. In the course of the conversation Mr. referred to his book and the work of the last of-door speeches on my Western trip that the fresh air greatly supported me. There was much less fatigue speaking out of doors than in a hall. I suppose all public speakers find this so. As I told you I made 486 speeches in six weeks, and had little time for rest or for preparation. I had a lot of correspondents with me all the time, and in all these speech I never had them pick me up on a word nor said a thing that could be used against me. And then, at the last moment, it was all over thrown by something some one else said." THE BURCHARD SPEECH.

"Did you hear the famous words of Dr. Burchard?"

"No, I did not hear what he said, but the in the country had it, of course. But, as a matter of fact, I did not hear it myself. Why, yes, it went all over the State that way. In a good many places in the West, they had slipe of paper printed with 'Read what Mr. Blaine says' on them and distributed them in front of the churches on Sunday. That is what lost me the election. You know, of course, how close it was. Well, in than 600 votes to have turned New York the other way. When it is as close as that there can be no certainty of the count. I don't think it can be ever said with certainty which one of us really got the most votes."
